Part III: How is the Gender dimension in curriculum?

(A statement needed from the Principal/ Director in 500 words)

The inclusion of a gender dimension in curriculum refers to incorporating the understanding of gender roles, identities, and issues into educational content and teaching methods. It recognizes that gender is a significant social construct that affects individuals' experiences, opportunities, and expectations.

Including a gender dimension in the curriculum serves several purposes:

1. Addressing gender stereotypes: Curriculum can challenge traditional gender stereotypes by promoting equitable and diverse representations of gender roles. It can highlight the contributions of women and men in various fields and encourage students to pursue their interests and aspirations without being limited by societal expectations.
2. Promoting gender equality: Integrating a gender dimension in the curriculum helps foster a sense of gender equality by providing a more comprehensive and inclusive understanding of the experiences and rights of all genders. It can explore issues such as gender-based violence, discrimination, and gender pay gaps, encouraging critical thinking and empathy among students.
3. Developing empathy and respect: By incorporating diverse perspectives and experiences, curriculum with a gender dimension can foster empathy and respect for individuals of all genders. It can promote an understanding of the challenges faced by different genders and help break down barriers and biases.
4. Empowering students: A curriculum that addresses gender dimensions can empower students to challenge discriminatory practices and advocate for gender equality. It can provide knowledge and skills necessary to participate in efforts to promote gender justice and social change.
5. Enhancing social awareness: Integrating gender dimensions into the curriculum contributes to raising awareness about gender-related issues and promoting social justice. It encourages students to think critically about societal norms, power structures, and the impact of gender on various aspects of life, such as education, health, and work.

To effectively incorporate a gender dimension in the curriculum, it is important to involve diverse perspectives, engage students in discussions, and provide appropriate resources and training for teachers. It should be a continuous process of review and improvement to ensure relevance and responsiveness to changing social contexts and emerging gender-related issues.
